

Make an HTML form that asks to enter 1 (a number) that will represent the number of lines that the figure must have. Then the program should display the figure with that number of lines. Keep in mind that the solution you propose must contain output statements by screen on which only one of the following characters is printed: white ' ', asterisk '*' or the letter 'o'.